MEDIA RELEASE

NEW HOST JOINS SEX SHOW ON JOY 94.9

The Spring program grid at JOY 94.9 marks the end of the line for a partnership that has challenged, educated and engaged JOY's listening audience from day one.

The partnership that has presented JOY's Adults-Only Sex Show, Hide & Seek, for more than 60 shows comes to an end on Thursday 30th of September.

James Findlay, who joined JOY 94.9 in August 2009 to co-host Hide & Seek is calling it quits to focus more on his work commitments and his breakfast show, The Glory Boys.

Hide & Seek's founder, producer and presenter, Dean Beck, is saddened to farewell his co-host saying, "James brought a generational perspective and a technical brilliance that was only surpassed by the chemistry we shared on-air."

"He has been my rock and my inspiration and he quickly became a cherished friend. That, I am pleased to say, will remain. I am 16 years older than James but I am honored he spent as much time mentoring me as he did. He will be a superstar – he already is in my eyes," said Dean.

Replacing James Findlay will be one of Melbourne's most high profile gay identities. A prolific artist, marketer, commentator, journalist and the Melbourne editor of samesame.com.au <<http://samesame.com.au>> , Travis de Jonk, will join Hide & Seek on JOY from Thursday, October 7.

"I am so excited Travis has agreed to join the show and I know he will bring his unique perspective to the positive expression of sex and sexuality that the show is renowned for," said Dean Beck.
